

Mark Alexander Design Update

We wish to inform our customers that it is business as usual here at Mark Alexander Design.

We are monitoring the current COVID-19 status and have taken necessary steps to ensure the safety and welfare of all clients, staff and the broader community by carefully following all Australian Government Department of health advice.

We have a strong commitment and are dedicated to continuing the daily operations of future and current work. Including working with new clients and maintaining workflow and production to achieve completion for our existing clients.

Mark Alexander Design is available now to assist with any interior design enquiries. Mark is available by appointment as required. Now is a great time to improve your home and interior spaces, with many of us having to cancel holidays and travel it seems like the perfect opportunity to focus on ourselves, our families and our homes.

We would like everyone to remain positive, support Australian manufacturing and design and also support our local economy during this uncertain and challenging time. Our commitment to customer service will remain unchanged, we are operating as usual and are fully accessible and ready to assist with any new enquiries and on going work.

We wish you and your families the best of health during this time and we will issue any further updates if and when required.
